OBAMA TO VISIT HIROSHIMA LATER THIS MONTH

Barack Obama later this month will become the first U.S. president to visit Hiroshima in Japan, but he will not apologize for the United States' dropping of an atomic bomb on the city at the end of World War II, the White House said. Awarded the Nobel Peace Prize early in his presidency in 2009 in part for his commitment to nuclear nonproliferation, Obama on May 27 will tour the site of the world's first nuclear bombing with Japan's Prime Minister Shinzo Abe. With the end of his last term in office approaching, Obama will "highlight his continued commitment to pursuing the peace and security of a world without nuclear weapons," the White House said. REUTERS

AMAZON TAKES AIM AT YOUTUBE WITH NEW VIDEO SERVICE

Amazon launched a service Tuesday that allows users to post videos and earn royalties from them, setting up the world's biggest online retailer to compete directly with Alphabet Inc.'s YouTube. The service, called Amazon Video Direct, will make the uploaded videos available to rent or own, to view free with ads or be packaged together and offered as an add-on subscription. Amazon will pay content creators 50 percent of the revenue earned from rental receipts or sale of the videos, according to the company's license agreement. For ad-supported videos, the creators will get half of the net ad receipts. Amazon's fast-growing Prime loyalty program already offers original TV programming and access to digital entertainment products such as Prime Music and Prime Video, as well as one-hour delivery of purchases, for an annual fee of $99. REUTERS

BALTIMORE COP WAIVES JURY TRIAL IN DEATH OF FREDDIE GRAY

A Baltimore police officer will be tried by a judge instead of a jury on charges stemming from the 2015 death of Freddie Gray, a black man who died in police custody, a Maryland judge ruled Tuesday. Edward Nero, 30, is the second officer to face trial in Baltimore City Circuit Court over Gray's death from a neck injury suffered in a police transport van. The incident sparked rioting and protests across the city of 620,000 and is one of those highlighted by the Black Lives Matter movement. Nero is charged with second-degree assault, two counts of misconduct in office and reckless endangerment. All are misdemeanors. REUTERS

NYC most affordable city in the state to buy a used car: Report

Based on the analysis, Manhattan is the most affordable county in New York state when it comes to purchasing a used vehicle.

ANGY ALTAMIRANO
@MetroNewYork
letters@metro.us

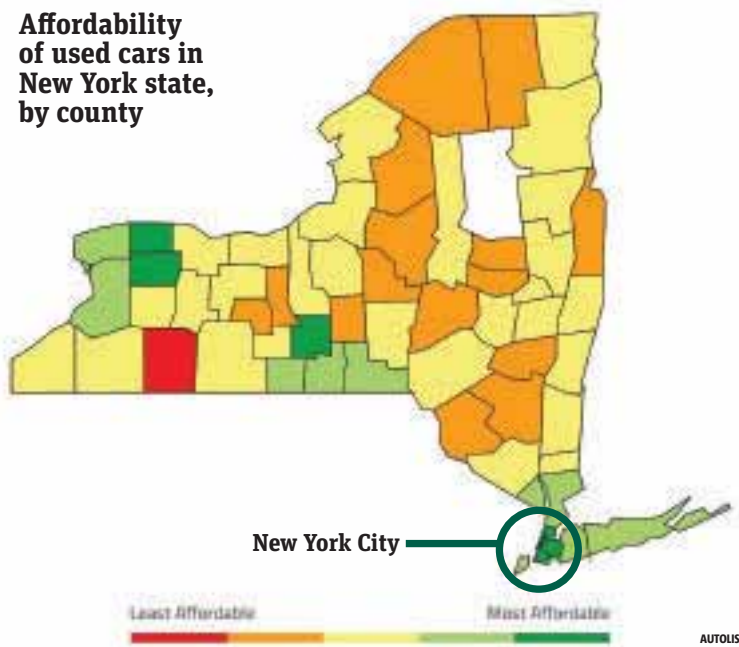

New Yorkers across the five boroughs are used to the idea that everything around them, from rent to food, is expensive, but one recent report shows the city that doesn't sleep is actually affordable in one area: used cars.

According to an analysis released Tuesday by Autolist — a used car search engine and buyer intelligence firm — New York City has been ranked as the No. 1 most affordable place in the state to buy a used vehicle.

The study revealed that used cars and trucks in the city were on average $881 less than the state's average and across the country, the city ranks as the 23rd most affordable city.

When analyzed by county, Manhattan came out on top in the state with an average $1,710 below the state's average. The Bronx was in third place with $988

Affordability of used cars in New York state, by county less than the state's average and Queens came in at No.4 with $965 less.

When it comes to different vehicle models in New York City, the most affordable model in the city is the BMW X4 with prices $1,879 below the state average — with Queens specifically being the most affordable county to purchase the particular model.

Other affordable models in New York City include the Dodge Ram 1500 pickup, Chevrolet Avalanche, Land Rover Range Rover Evoque and MINI Countryman.

Based on results from the study, the number of dealers in an area contributed largely to price differences. Other factors that affected prices include manufacturer community presence and geographic demands.

"In looking at the study's results for New York state specifically, we found that pricing trends that we saw at the national level were highly visible at the state, county and city level in New York state," Alex Klein, vice president of data science for Autolist said. "Generally, high-density areas with more dealerships have lower prices, as there are more dealerships and as a result, more competition, which then drives down prices."

NY metro area sees decrease in expansion in last three decades

According to an analysis by BuildZoom, the city has seen a decrease of 45.1 percent since 1970.

ANGY ALTAMIRANO
@MetroNewYork
letters@metro.us

Even as developments keeping popping up across the New York metro area, a recent report shows that the region has actually seen a drastic decrease of expansion in the past few decades.

The metro New York region — which covers New York City and areas in New Jersey, Connecticut and Pennsylvania — has experienced a decrease in expansion of 45.1 percent since 1970, according to a recent study released by BuildZoom.

Based on data from the analysis, New York has dropped in square miles of expansion from 525 square miles in the 1970s to 288 square miles in the 2000s.

New York — along with other major cities such as Boston, Philadelphia, Los Angeles, Seattle, San Diego, and others — have all seen a reduction in outward expansion and in turn experienced high property values. With the decrease, New York decelerated the ninth most of any of the top 40 metro areas in the United States.

Other cities — such as Atlanta, Austin, Houston and Phoenix — have instead increased outward expansion, with many of them either doubling or tripling their developed footprint, and seen greater population growth.

According to Dr. Issi Romem, chief economist for BuildZoom, the group of metropolitan areas seeing the decrease in expansion — referred to as “expensive cities” — are being blocked by such barriers as natural geography and local land use policies such as zoning requirements.

These areas also deal with stricter qualifications for project approvals and in some cases, according to Romem, deal with projects being decided by “hyper local authorities” who make it harder for outsiders to come into the city.

“America’s largest cities — ‘the expensive cities’ — have slowed down their outward expansion and failed to compensate with densification, but failing to build enough new housing does not maintain their character,” Romem said. “Instead, it affects the nature of who can and cannot afford to live in these cities.”

Even with its reported decrease in expansion, New York City itself reached a record high in population of over 8 million residents, according to the U.S. Census Bureau.

The growth of population was seen largely in the outer boroughs, such as Queens, Brooklyn and the Bronx.

Based on the U.S. Census Bureau’s analysis, demographers project that the city’s population will go over the 9 million mark by 2040.

UNIDENTIFIED WOMAN

Unidentified elderly woman found wandering inside Brooklyn Sephora: NYPD

Police are asking for the public’s help in identifying an elderly woman found wandering inside a Brooklyn beauty store over the weekend.

On May 7 at about 12 p.m. the victim — described as an Asian woman between 80 and 90 years old — was found inside the Sephora at 210 Joralemon Street, according to authorities.

The woman did not speak English and was found to be incoherent after an interview with an interpreter, police said. She also could not provide authorities with her name or contact information for any friends or relatives.

Cops described the woman as 5 feet tall, 100 pounds and was found wearing a green, red and blue sweater, black winter hat, black shoes and she had keys tied by a lanyard around her neck.

Anyone with information should call the NYPD’s Crime Stoppers Hotline at 1-800-577-TIPS (8477). ANGY ALTAMIRANO

UWS HIT-AND-RUN

Police release photo of car involved in Upper West Side hit-and-run

The NYPD is asking for the public’s help in locating a vehicle involved in a hit-and-run Monday afternoon in the Upper West Side that left four pedestrians injured.

At about 4:38 p.m. Tuesday police responded to a car crash near West 62nd Street and Broadway where emergency personnel had transported four victims to local hospitals.

The victims included a 39-year-old woman with a severe cut to her left arm who was taken to Bellevue Hospital in critical condition; a 23-year-old man with a broken nose and cuts to his right arm and a 50-year-old man with a broken arm who were taken to St. Luke’s Roosevelt Hospital; and a 42-year-old man with a bruise to his right arm who was taken to Cornell Medical Center.

A preliminary investigation found that a black four-door 1999 Honda Accord had been traveling northbound on Broadway at a high speed when it rear-ended a yellow 2004 Nissan taxi, police said.

The taxi then accelerated onto the sidewalk and crashed into a mobile food cart — containing a worker inside — which fell over and struck the four pedestrians on the sidewalk, according to cops. The Honda then drove away northbound on Broadway.

On Tuesday morning, police released a photo of the Honda Accord, which has a Pennsylvania license plate #KCN0713. The sedan suffered damage to the front end, mainly on the passenger side of the car.

Anyone with information is asked to call the NYPD’s Crime Stoppers Hotline at 1-800-577-TIPS (8477) or for Spanish, 1-888-57-PISTA (74782).

The window washers hang precariously from a building in lower Manhattan. LENYON WHITAKER

Workers rescued from dangling scaffolding in lower Manhattan

Rescuers were able to save the workers as they climbed through one of the windows.

Firefighters rushed to the aid of two workers Tuesday morning as they were left dangling from a scaffold 17 stories above the ground in lower Manhattan.

The workers, who were washing windows at 33 Maiden Lane, were on the slanted scaffold starting at around 9:50 a.m. after the rig got stuck on the side of the building, according to the FDNY.

Police closed off surrounding streets as authorities made their way to rescue the workers.

NYPD Emergency Services Unit personnel were in the process of climbing down from the roof of the building to provide the two men lifesaving ropes to secure them, officials said.

Around 10:32 a.m., rescuers were able to save the workers after smashing through a window on the 16th floor of the 27-story building.

"They were calm, they were professional," said FDNY Deputy Assistant Chief Michael Gala.

Both workers were taken to New York Downtown Hospital to be treated for minor injuries.

The scaffolding was leveled by noon and fully lifted at about 2:30 p.m. The FDNY said maintenance workers and the Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA) will evaluate and investigate the situation.

QUEENS ELDERLY ATTACK

Man punches elderly woman as she walked into Queens subway station: Police

Police are looking for a man they say attacked a 74-year-old woman as she made her way into a Queens subway station earlier this month.

On May 1 at about 5:15 p.m., the victim was walking down the stairs of the 65th Street station when the suspect — described as a black man between 5 foot 10 and 6 foot — got into her face as he walked up the stairs, according to authorities.

The man then allegedly punched the elderly woman in the head once and ran up the stairs onto the street, police said.

The victim was taken to Elmhurst General Hospital where she was treated and released.

Police have released a video of the suspect after the attack near the intersection of 69th Street and 38th Avenue. He was last seen wearing a red jacket and blue jeans.

Anyone with information in regards to this incident is asked to call the NYPD's Crime Stoppers Hotline at 1-800-577-TIPS (8477) or for Spanish, 1-888-57-PISTA (74782).

The public can also submit their tips by logging onto the Crime Stoppers website or by texting their tips to 274637 (CRIMES) then enter TIP577.

NY, NJ officials urge reforms for 'bizarre' permitting process

The executive director of New York City's biggest regional transportation authority on Monday urged reforms of the nation's environmental review process for infrastructure projects to cut costs due to bureaucratic delays.

"A rational, refined, streamlined environmental process is actually a huge step further and benefits the environment," said Port Authority of New York and New Jersey Executive Director Pat Foye.

Foye and U.S. Sen. Cory Booker of New Jersey said during a panel discussion that excessive red tape threatened to make Amtrak's $24 billion Gateway Project, which includes digging new rail tunnels beneath the Hudson River, significantly more expensive.

An 18-month delay in permitting could cause project construction costs to soar $1.8 billion, according to a report by Common Good, which sponsored the panel.

The longer permitting delays last, the higher construction costs would rise, to an extra $6.6 billion if the delays last as long as five-and-a-half years, the report found.

The permitting process for Gateway began Monday, Amtrak said, adding that it hopes to be done with that phase in two years.

Panel participants called the permitting process "headless" and "bizarre" and said it resulted in a 20,000-page environmental review document for the Bayonne Bridge.

Officials say Gateway is essential to the economic viability of the region. The existing rail tunnel under the Hudson River transports 200,000 commuters into Manhattan each day.

In December, the Port Authority's board officially endorsed the creation of a Gateway Development Corp. to oversee the project. The federal government has agreed to pay half of the project cost, with the two states and Port Authority sharing the rest.

Sen. Cory Booker GETTY IMAGES

In addition to a new tunnel, Gateway includes new bridges, track and upgrades to train stations in Newark, New Jersey, and Manhattan.

Foye called last year for an expedited permitting process to save money when he estimated that the tunnel portion alone could cost $10 billion. REUTERS

US will not seek death penalty against Benghazi suspect

Four Americans, including Ambassador Christopher Stevens, were killed in 2012 attack on diplomatic compound in Libya.

Federal prosecutors will not seek the death penalty in the case against Abu Khatallah, the man charged in the 2012 attacks on the American consulate in Benghazi, Libya, according to court documents filed Tuesday.

Khatallah was captured in 2014 and brought to the United States for trial in federal court in Washington.

Competency hearing to resume for accused Colo. clinic gunman

Among those killed in Planned Parenthood shooting were two people in waiting area — an Army veteran and mother of two, as well as a police officer.

Robert Lewis Dear GETTY IMAGES

The man who proclaimed himself a “warrior for the babies” after a fatal shooting spree at a Planned Parenthood clinic in Colorado last year was due back in court Tuesday for the continuation of a hearing on his mental state.

During a daylong hearing last month, two state psychologists testified that their evaluation of Robert Lewis Dear, 58, found him delusional and unfit to stand trial for the Colorado Springs rampage that left three dead and nine wounded.

El Paso County judge Gilbert Martinez ordered the mental evaluation of Dear in December after the South Carolina native insisted on firing his attorney and representing himself in a case stemming from the first fatal attack on a U.S. abortion provider since 2009.

Dear, who has insisted he is competent, declared himself guilty and a “warrior for the babies” in previous courtroom outbursts.

If Martinez rules Dear unfit — meaning he is incapable of understanding the proceedings and assisting in his own defense — the case will be suspended and he will be sent back to a state hospital where doctors will seek to restore him to competency.

The first of two psychologists to testify April 28, Jackie Grimmer, said Dear appeared to be suffering from a delusional disorder, possessing a factual but not rational understanding of the criminal proceedings.

Her colleague, B. Thomas Gray, concurred that Dear was delusional, saying the defendant “intends to plead guilty unless God tells him differently.”

A police detective who took the stand recounted Dear telling police after his arrest that he believed he was being followed by 10 federal agents the day of the shooting. REUTERS

Trump has narrowed potential running mate picks to five or six: AP

Trump told AP in an interview that he had not ruled out New Jersey Gov. Chris Christie, a former rival now supporting Trump's bid for the White House.

Donald Trump GETTY IMAGES

Republican presidential candidate Donald Trump said he had narrowed his potential vice presidential choices to five or six experienced politicians, the Associated Press reported on Tuesday.

"I have a list of people that I would like," Trump was quoted as saying, adding he wanted his running mate to have political experience to help him "with legislation, getting things through"

Washington if he wins the Nov. 8 presidential election.

The New York billionaire businessman also said choosing someone who previously held elected office would make it easier to do background checks, in part because that person would have already been checked out by voters, the news media and to some extent, the government, according to the AP.

"For the most part, they've been vetted over the last 20 years," it quoted him as saying.

Trump's campaign manager, Corey Lewandowski, is heading up the vetting effort, a campaign aide said on Tuesday.

The vetting group includes former rival Ben Carson and Trump himself, the AP quoted the billionaire businessman as saying.

Climbers near Everest summit for first time in three years

Climbers on Mount Everest are on the brink of the first attempts in three years to make the final ascent to the world's tallest peak, after fatal avalanches cut short the 2014 and 2015 campaigns.

Teams at forward camps are looking for a weather "window" to open in the next few days, clearing the way to the 29,035 foot summit along the Southeast Ridge first climbed by New Zealand's Sir Edmund Hillary and Sherpa Tenzing Norgay in 1953.

The southern route, on the Nepali side of the mountain, has suffered tragedy over the past two years, with 16 sherpa guides killed by an avalanche in the treacherous Khumbu Icefall in 2014. Last year, an earthquake that killed 9,000 people across Nepal sent a massive snowslide crashing into Base Camp, killing at least 18 climbers and guides and putting an end to that year's campaign.

At least 289 climbers and their guides are in different high camps waiting for a weather window and jostling to become the first to scale the peak. Nearly 700 people summited in 2013.

Tourism Department official Gyanendra Shrestha said climbers had fixed ropes up to the South Col, the final camp, at about 26,246 feet, and were stocking it with supplies.

"Climbers have begun to move from the base camp to higher camps for the summit," Shrestha told Reuters from Base Camp.

Ang Tshering Sherpa, chief of the Nepal Mountaineering Association, who is in touch with climbers at Base Camp, said in Kathmandu that, weather permitting, the route from the South Col to the summit would be fixed on Wednesday.

THOUSANDS of knee arthritis sufferers flock for this advanced medical treatment - How they relieved pain while so many continue to suffer

Knee Arthritis Pain: The Untold Story

Why patients come from all over the Tri-State area for this knee arthritis pain treatment and why waiting can decrease your chance to live pain free. life again

Downtown NYC Medical Institute is a medical clinic with multiple locations in New York City that has treated thousands of knee arthritis patients.

Here is what every knee arthritis sufferer should know about the best treatments and options available today. And why waiting drastically decreases your chances to live a pain free life again.

The information you are about to read can possibly save you from years and years of agonizing knee pain.

It might even keep you from getting total knee replacement surgery.

Please pay careful attention.

What you are about to read is a cutting-edge medical treatment... but it is NOT what it appears to be at first glance.

In fact, I'm going to have to ask for a bit of patience from you if you have already unsuccessfully tried any (or many) other knee arthritis pain treatments.

You see, many knee arthritis sufferers had already tried the treatment we are going to talk about and did not get the results they wanted. But I assure you there is something VERY DIFFERENT about the technology and the way we do this treatment that makes it much different.

And often gets results when many others have failed.

This is why patients come from all over the tri-state area and beyond to have their knee arthritis pain treated here.

Would You Like Instant Proof?

eliminating the pain.

What Results Can Be Expected?

Like all medical treatments, the results vary and can not be predicted. In fact, it is impossible to predict results and there are no statistics proving what the "average" patients can expect. Everyone is individual and gets individual results - so we never tell anyone to expect the same results as any of our other patients. But to be 100% clear - many knee arthritis sufferers get dramatic results. It is not uncommon for patients to either postpone knee replacement surgery for years... or even permanently cancel it.

What Are Treatments Like?

Treatments are simple, fast and virtually painless. The total time of the procedure itself is only 10 minutes and most say it is like getting a flu shot. You walk out of the clinic just minutes after your procedure.

But There Is A BIG Problem The key is the treatment must be EXTREMELY PRECISE. If the injection is slightly off, the medication will not get into the knee joint and the treatment will not work.

That's why the experts at OsteoRelief Institute use advanced digital imaging so they can see the injection going directly into the knee joint during the treatment.

Research shows that doctors performing joint injections without imaging miss the joint as much as 30% of the time.

If you had viscosupplementation without this special digital imaging without good results - this may be why.

"I cannot ask for better results"

Dr. Stanley Weiner, M.D. - Surgeon

I had surgery scheduled last year. Three months before I made an appointment with Downtown NYC Medical Institute. I was amazed at the ease with which I was evaluated and the treatment schedule implemented. The results I had at Downtown NYC Medical Institute were outstanding. I cannot ask for better results. After the treatment I was able to go back to work with no discomfort at all. They use a digital monitor to locate the space that they use the treatment for and it's... it's like exact science. Dr. Stanley Weiner

"I don't have any pain any more"

After I had the treatments... the last tuneup...

"Hey this feels terrific"

I was diagnosed bone on bone about 2 years ago I went to see an Orthopedic Surgeon and he said my knees were shot and I need to get them replaced. Downtown NYC Medical said after looking at x-rays they could help. That procedure is so basic so simple so quick in 15 minutes you are in and out. I did both legs at once which is great. When I got up out of the chair I stood up and I said, "Hey this feels terrific."

"I feel like a new woman - It's amazing."

If you want instant proof - you can just look at all the actual patient testimonials we have included. These patients were once skeptical just like you... and are now either pain free... or eliminated quite a bit of their pain.

Here's the most important thing: Many said they saw this information SEVERAL times before finally deciding to take action and give us a call. As you can see - they are happy they did.

Once crippled with knee pain, they are playing golf again, dancing again, riding bikes again and going for long walks again.

But we do get one very common complaint.

And it is: "I wish I started this treatment much sooner." Let's be very clear about this. Time is the most precious thing. There is no way to slow it down - or get any back once it is gone.

All the more reason for you to not suffer even one more second than you have to. Missing life suffering in pain is a tragedy. It's time for you to get rid of your knee pain and start living the life you want and deserve.

And please understand this: One of the keys to success in medicine is early diagnosis and treatment. Like many diseases, arthritis only gets worse over time. The longer you wait - the more damage to your knee and the more pain you will be in. If you wait too long, the entire knee joint will be degenerated and your ONLY option will be total knee replacement.

If you are suffering with knee arthritis pain, here is why you should act RIGHT

NOW: When you have arthritis, you suffer a decrease in the lubricating fluids in your knee. In other words, your knee joints basically "dries up." The lubricating fluid that decreases is called "synovial fluid."

Pharmaceutical companies (with the help of scientists) can now make synovial fluid-like compounds that... during viscosupplementation treatments... doctors precisely inject directly into the knee joint.

This helps replace the lubricating fluid to the knee joint - allowing it to move more freely and smoothly and often decreasing or even

That's why Downtown NYC Medical Institute even takes it one step further. They do not just use one form of advanced imaging during treatment - they use two in their "double confirmation" process. This is to ensure patients get the best possible results.

Another Important Factor

Viscosupplementation medications also come in several different brands and chemical make-ups.

Just like all medications, some people respond better to some than others. While many doctors only use one brand, the experts at Downtown NYC Medical Institute use several and great effort is taken to figure out what the best one for YOU is.

What To Do Next If You Are In Pain:

I just go right to the golf course. I'm able to keep up with these guys who walk - I'm right next to them! My guys on the golf course would say Hey, look at this he doesn't need us to put the ball up any more.

When I'm playing on the course I don't have any pain any more I don't have any aches and pain.

I'm out there playing!

"I feel like a new woman"

I came to the clinic because I was not sleeping at night. My leg was Pounding. There were times when I sat too long the knee would tighten up. I would get in pain and I would be miserable and I would have it for the whole night.

After the treatment I goof around with my grandchildren. I feel like a new woman. It's great. I know I don't have to sit on the couch and be in pain and I can just pick up and get dressed and go out. It was so gentle.

It got to the point where I couldn't stand up for a period of time and I knew something had to be done about it. You walk into the doctors office - he puts your leg in a machine - he shows you where he is going to do the procedure and before you know it... it's done and you're outta there. Now I'm able to take out my bicycle a couple of the guys and myself we took a couple of rides out in the woods and we had a good time and I couldn't do that for years and now I'm able to do it again.

The pain was excruciating like 24/7. Nothing I took over-the-counter would work so I knew it was something more serious. When I saw that my condition was not getting any better, I decided to do something about it and I immediately made an appointment - I went and started treatment. The feeling of getting back to my dancing and my mobility is indescribable. I feel like a new woman - It's amazing.

"I am ecstatic with the results of this procedure"

One day, as I was running, my knee got tighter and tighter. I had to stop and just walk home.

They x-rayed me and said I was a candidate for it. You sit there for about 2-3 minutes and then you are up and walking out the door. I am ecstatic with the results of this procedure because I could not run just weeks before. I ran my race without any issues. I felt good - it just opened a door that was closing.

"I Can Finally Live My Life"

Prior the the relief center I was taking (9:30) and I was becoming addicted to it and it was damaging my health. Since the treatment, I've been able to be less dependent on them. I don't feel helpless anymore. Since going through the procedure I can finally live. I can finally live my life.

Ryan Gosling is a dad once more

Ryan Gosling and Eva Mendes have welcomed their second child, according to some shady detective work by TMZ. The birth certificate lists the new baby as a girl named Amada Lee Gosling, born April 29 at 8:03 a.m. in Santa Monica, California. And no, they didn't misspell "Amanda." Amada — also the middle name of the couple's first daughter, who is 20 months old — is the name of Mendes' late grandmother. And also her character in the 2007 police drama "We Own the Night," but that seems like a less-sentimental reference. If this all seems kind of sudden, it's because word hadn't even gotten out that the notoriously press-shy couple was expecting again until last month. And now the baby is here! Which is great,

Olivia Munn didn't mean to lose all that weight

If you've been struggling with a diet, this humblebrag from Olivia Munn is probably not going to sit very well with you. The former "Daily Show" correspondent thinks it's all sorts of adorable to talk about how she — whoops! — accidentally lost 12 pounds without thinking about it while prepping for "X-

Men: Apocalypse." But to be fair, it involved a ton of exercise. "It was not intentional. I was trying to learn how to do all the stunts," Munn tells E! News. "If I wanted the fans to see Psylocke and get a good fight scene for her and the fans, I knew I had to go do it myself. So I started training every day with tae kwon do and sword and the stunt and wire work, and I just ended up losing 12 pounds from working out every day." OK, so maybe there's some impressive work ethic on display and not so much obnoxious talk about how easy losing weight can be.

Tilda Swinton doesn't go full Bowie

The Oscar-winner mixed her influences to play a rocker in the new "A Bigger Splash."

MATT PRIGGE
@mattprigge
matt.prigge@metro.us

In "A Bigger Splash," Tilda Swinton almost doesn't speak at all. That might be a good hook for a movie, but it's downright cruel for those who like hearing the Oscar-winner blabber. In real life she's a talker, quick to launch into epic, eloquent monologues.

But this new film — her third feature with Italian director Luca Guadagnino, including "I Am Love" — robs her character of speech, the result of an operation she got thanks to her being a stadium-packing rock star. Swinton's Marianne Lane isn't completely mum. When she speaks, which she does as infrequently as she can, it's in a husk. Even that can be hard on the vocal chords. Not that Swinton was ever worried.

"I'm not a professional. I'm sure a professional would know how to do it without damaging their voice. But I didn't think of it," Swinton says. "I haven't damaged my voice. So my rock career is safe."

Rock stardom is something Tilda knows at least something about, having worked with David Bowie.

"Funnily enough, we didn't think of Bowie," Swinton explains. "But the truth is anybody who puts on a sequin jumpsuit for the rest of time is going to be reminiscent of Bowie." Instead she thought of Chrissie Hynde, Patti Smith, Joan Jett, P.J. Harvey. "She's like all sorts of people I am lucky enough to know, with that much drama in their life."

"A Bigger Splash" isn't about her rocking out, though. It follows Marianne on an extended vacation on the arid but gorgeous Mediterranean island of Pantelleria, doing little but lounging about with her photographer boyfriend (Matthias Schoenaerts). Their peaceful idyll is upset by the arrival of Henry (Ralph Fiennes), a music producer and close friend (and, for her, a former lover) who, unlike them, is still perpetually very much on.

Matthias Schoenaerts and Tilda Swinton play lovers whose peaceful Mediterranean vacation is upset by a brash friend (Ralph Fiennes) in "A Bigger Splash." FOX SEARCHLIGHT

"He's trying to keep it going, keep the party going. And she wants to go home and be peaceful and get some rest," says Swinton. "Being a rock star brings with it a particular need for retreat."

Speaking about not speaking

Marianne wasn't always going to be a rocker. In the original script she was an actress, and she had a normal amount of dialogue. At first Swinton wasn't keen on taking on that baggage.

"I was going to not make a film that particular year. My mother had just died, and I didn't want to do anything. I certainly didn't want to play an actress who talked a lot," Swinton recalls. Guadagnino was persistent, though, and she ultimately had to ask what it would take for her to come onboard. When she realized Marianne could have lost her voice it all clicked. It's still a difficult exercise to play someone who can't use words to express herself.

"It's a very strange thing saying to yourself, 'I can't talk,'" she says. "Sometimes there are things that have to be said, and they just burst out of you. We set ourselves this challenge: 'In every scene you won't say anything, and just feel what needs to be said.' I managed to get out of it without breaking my vows not to speak. But occasionally I had to say something."

Lukas Graham and the '7 Years' itch

The singer explains his chart-topping single.

RACHEL RACZKA
@rachelraczka
rachel.raczka@metro.us

Lukas Graham's introspective "7 Years" is as tear-jerking as it is catchy, making it the perfect pre-summer track for the graduating generation. The four-piece Danish band, whose lead singer is incidentally named Lukas Graham, released their self-titled global debut (this one distinctively blue, à la Weezer) state-side in April on Warner Bros. following their U.S. breakthrough "7 Years."

The band is now nearing the end of their American tour, and Graham catches up with us from middle of nowhere

Lukas Graham take over the charts with "7 Years." CHAPMAN BAEHLER

Oklahoma, which he'd describes as "very flat," but lovely.

Who would you say some of your biggest musical influences have been?

That would be my father — he had a massive record and CD collection and introduced me to new bands. The standard saying is that after [age] 27, you don't pick up new bands, so my dad would find new bluegrass bands or drum and bass bands, like Prodigy, and have me listen to them.

And you've said in the past that hip-hop also plays a big role.

I don't have a favorite genre, but rap music in general, story-driven stuff, has been a huge influence. I really liked Dr. Dre because he never shied away from anything lyrical. "2001" is one of the most groundbreaking albums in pop music. You wouldn't have Drake or Eminem or 50 Cent or the Game as they are today. You'd probably have them, but they would sound different.

In the middle of "7 Years," there's a moment where you hear an announcer saying "Lukas Graham" and a crowd screaming. What is that from?

It's the first festival show we did in Denmark, the first time we played for 5,000 people inside a tent. There was this energy. [The crowd's reaction] was like 115 decibels and our sound guys said we were allowed to play at 103 decibels. It was a crazy experience.

Was that a pinnacle moment for you as a band?

Yeah, but for me, my favorite sound is not when they are yelling, but when they sing back. It gets me every time. It's so weird, but I get emotionally involved because I get to do this for living. I have friends in prison for murder and drugs and explosives, but I get to do this. [Our band] is so lucky, we're the boys who got themselves together and did something instead of wasting our high school years behind bars.

Mentions of your parents appear a lot on the album, not only in "7 Years" but in "Funeral" and "You're Not There." What about them inspired you?

They were exceptionally good parents. There was food on our table, we had beds, we weren't beaten, we had clothes on our backs. I remember hanging out with other people's families and you realize how dysfunctional they can be for no other reason other than that their parents are ... d—s. The freedom that my parents offered us made me and my younger and older sisters conscious, giving, caring human beings.

How to buy art on a budget

Your walls deserve better than those mass-produced prints.

MONICA WEYMOUTH
@MetroNewYork
letters@metro.us

That Audrey Hepburn poster looked great in your college dorm. Those Ikea prints? Totally acceptable for your first apartment. But time has come to upgrade your art, adults (and aspiring adults) of the world.

"When you buy original art, you're not buying something mass-produced that everyone in the world has," says Rachel Zimmerman, founder of InLiquid, a Philadelphia-based virtual hub for visual artists.

Unfortunately, buying art isn't as easy as buying a couch. We hit up the experts for some tips on starting a budget-friendly personal collection.

Go local

The best place to find great original art? Right under your nose. Not only is buying local good for your wallet, it's good for your community. "Be a part of your local art history," says David Parker, a contemporary and modern art advisor to collectors worldwide. "Look at any museum anywhere and you'll see that it exists because someone cared about art enough to look after it, and that shaped an entire space. If you can spend $300 a year buying work from an artist you love, after 20 years, you might be their biggest supporter." Pro tip: For great deals on work from up-and-comers, hit up student shows.

Buy prints wisely

If you can't afford an original piece, prints are a solid alternative — if you do your research, that is. "Go to a reputable source and make sure it is authentic," says Rebecca O'Leary, a consultant to both private and corporate collectors. "There are a lot of pseudo art dealers who will sell you a framed digital copy and call it an 'original print from a secondary source' for a high price. It can be like buying a used car — be sure you know who you are buying from."

Trust your gut

Once you get yourself out to a gallery and interacting with art, buying a piece is actually quite simple. "It's about looking and feeling: What is your response to what you're looking at? Are you feeling it? If not, move on," says Parker. "The word that I always come back to is 'resonance.' Does the work resonate with you on some level? If so, it's the right work. Don't let someone tell you that one silkscreen is better than another."

These NYC penthouses are languishing without buyers

Social media stars and TV cameos haven't helped these apartments sell.

TheRealDeal.com is a daily blog and monthly magazine covering real estate in the New York metro area.

THE REAL DEAL

11 North Moore

While brokers try everything from price cuts to publicity stunts to generate interest in their product, the market just ain't buying some of what they have to sell.

A number of penthouses are lingering for months — and even years — before finding a buyer. Those that have been written about in the media and plugged aggressively on social media and television by brokers with large followings don't seem to be selling any quicker than their less-talked-about counterparts.

Which penthouses have lingered longest?

Here's our roundup of flashy units that have had long lives as listed properties.

at 11 North Moore has seen its share of interest from A-list buyers — actor Leonardo DiCaprio is among those who reportedly scoped it out. But the luxe Tribeca pad, developed by VE Equities, hasn't found a buyer since hitting the market at $40 million in January 2014.

The apartment is more than 7,000 square feet and has roughly 3,100 square feet of outdoor space (and a private outdoor pool). After lowering the price to $29.95 million last year, Douglas Elliman's Fredrik Eklund, who is marketing the condo with colleague John Gomes, told the New York Daily News: "We made a decision to get real and sell it."

Steven A. Cohen's penthouse at One Beacon Court

Last year, the New York Post suggested that hedge funder Steven A. Cohen's penthouse at One Beacon Court was "jinxed." That's up for debate, but the fact is the spread at 151 E. 58th St., above Bloomberg headquarters, hasn't found a buyer since it hit the market in 2013. The penthouse is now asking $72 million — a discount from the initial asking price of $110 million.

Cohen bought the 9,000-square-foot pad for $24 million in 2005.

Tommy Hilfiger's Plaza Hotel penthouse

The fashion mogul's 6,000-square-foot pad has been on and off the market since 2013, when it was first asking $80 million, or $13,333 per square foot. Now listed for a humbler $68.95 million, the spread has four bedrooms and Central Park views. Hilfiger spent $25 million to buy three units in 2008, and then shelled out another $20 million to combine and renovate the space.

Leicester City shocked the world this season. GETTY IMAGES

SOCCKER'S MAJOR TITLE SEASON NOW IN FULL SWING

@Richslate

I have mentioned them a few times before in this space, but it's only right that Leicester City (23-11-3) gets a little more love since they officially won the 2015-16 Barclays Premier League title. The Foxes had clinched their first ever top-flight title on May 2 with Tottenham's (19-13-5) 2-2 draw with Chelsea (12-12-12), but Leicester City continued the never-ending party on Saturday as they beat Everton (10-14-12) 3-1 at King Power Stadium in front of their eternally grateful home fans. By now you've probably heard that they were 5000-1 favorites to win the BPL crown but this truly is one of the great underdog stories in sports history — so it's worth rehashing.

Bayern Munich's Bundesliga dynasty

They might have fallen in the Champions League semifinals for the third year in a row, but Bayern Munich (27-4-2) still deserves major credit for winning its fifth straight Bundesliga title. Last Saturday they won 2-1 at FC Ingolstadt (10-10-13) to wrap up the German title with two matches left in the season. Bayern has scored 77 goals and has only allowed 16 in league play — by any measure they are still one of the top clubs in the world.

All-Spanish Cham- pions League Final

It's doubtful when this tournament began last year (yes it takes that long to complete it) that many people would have picked Atletico Madrid vs. Real Madrid to meet in the 2016 Champions League Final — yet here we are. Atletico lost 2-1 at Bayern last week but advanced thanks to that all-important away goal (2-2 on aggregate). Real Madrid beat Manchester City 1-0 last Wednesday at home and moved on (aggregate 1-0) to club soccer's Super Bowl — which will take place on Saturday, May 28 (2:45, FOX) in Milan, Italy.

Liverpool in the mix

It understandably won't get nearly the same amount of coverage as the Champions League Final, but make no mistake the Europa League Final is important as well. Last Thursday, Liverpool won 3-0 against Villarreal (3-1 aggregate) to reach the title game where they will meet Sevilla (Spain), which beat Shakhtar Donetsk 3-1 (5-3 on aggregate). That Final will be on Wednesday, May 18 (2:45, FOX Sports 1) in Basel, Switzerland.

Yankees showing signs of life

The Yanks are starting to grab some wins but the success might not last.

ROBERT CRISCOLA
@ItsGood2BeKing
sports@metro.us

Yankee fans have finally had something to cheer about over the past few days after a dismal beginning to the 2016 season. The Bombers beat the Royals, 6-3, on Monday night to give themselves three wins in four days. Brian McCann, Carlos Beltran, Brett Gardner and Aaron Hicks all went deep in Monday night's game, while Aroldis Chapman shut the door in his first appearance of the season and touched 101 mph on the radar gun.

But the Yankees are still well under .500 and sit in last place in the AL East. They face a difficult stretch of games from now until the end of May. The pinstripers still have to deal with the 2015 World Series Champion Royals midweek before squaring off with the AL's best team, the Chicago White Sox, over the weekend. They're currently in line to face Chris Sale (7-0, 1.79 ERA) on Friday. Sale has befuddled them in the past (3-1, 1.21 ERA in six career starts).

After that series concludes the Bombers will go on the road to face the Diamondbacks, where they'll have no DH to assist what's been a surprisingly lackluster Yankees offense this season. They rank in the bottom third in most offensive categories of note, including average (.233), runs (107), and slugging percentage (.369).

Then the Yankees

will be matched up with the Athletics at Oakland Coliseum. The A's are under .500 at the moment, but the Yankees are 3-7 in their last 10 games against them, including a series sweep at their hands in late April.

This spate of road games could further damage the Yankees' chances of climbing back into the AL East race, as they are an awful 4-10 away from the Stadium this year.

After a needed day off that will conclude a span of 20 games in as many days, the Yankees will have to face the Blue Jays, who gave them fits last year (they were 6-13 against their neighbors to the north) and ultimately beat them out of the division crown. The Yankees will face Toronto five times before the month of May ends, with a road series against the Rays sandwiched in between.

The last thing the Yankees need this month is DL casualties piling up, but that's been exactly what's happening. Alex Rodriguez and C.C. Sabathia have already missed time due to hamstring and groin problems, and Jacoby Ellsbury could soon join them on the sideline as he tweaked his hip running the bases in a game against the Red Sox last Friday.

"You start to worry about your depth a little bit when [injuries] start to mount," New York manager Joe Girardi told reporters on Monday. "It can add up, and we've seen it add up in the past."

Ellsbury's replacement is Hicks, who before Monday night's game was hitting a dreadful .122 in 41 prior at-bats.

Research study: Effects of N-acetylcysteine (NAC) in people with and without Parkinson's disease

There are a number of factors involved in the development of Parkinson's disease. One of these factors is oxidative stress in brain cells, which might be alleviated by N-acetylcysteine (NAC). NAC is currently used for acetaminophen intoxication and lung disease and can be purchased without prescription as a dietary supplement, but there is currently no FDA approval for use in Parkinson's disease.

In this research study, brain imaging, clinical tests and questionnaires will be used to examine the effects of NAC. The results might help explain the underlying mechanism of Parkinson's disease and we would learn more about whether NAC is beneficial in Parkinson's disease.

HOW CAN YOU PARTICIPATE?

- We are seeking healthy volunteers
- Men and women 50 to 75 years old
- Willing to participate in brain imaging studies and clinical exams
- Able to complete questionnaires
- Willing to take the study drug N-acetylcysteine or an inactive drug (placebo) daily for 30 days

All appointments will be on the Weill Cornell Medicine campus in the Upper East Side of Manhattan. Compensation will be provided.

Aries Focus on personal change and improving your financial situation. Don't let an emotional incident set you back or stifle your plans. Look over contracts and personal concerns.

Taurus Join forces with someone who shares your concerns. An alternative path will give you insight into an incident and show you how you can rectify a pending problem.

Gemini You must pay close attention to relationships that have the potential to upset your status, reputation or position. Such delicate matters must be handled carefully.

Cancer Don't make abrupt decisions when helping others. You are best off getting the lowdown before committing to something you may regret. Charity begins at home.

Leo You'll face criticism if you don't take others seriously. The changes you make will not go over well if you don't let those affected by your choices have a say.

Virgo A networking function or social event will result in unexpected opportunities. Sign up for a retreat or conference, or plan a romantic trip for two.

Libra Get involved in your community or travel to visit someone who needs your help. Initiate change that will improve your domestic situation. Don't let an emotional matter hold you back.

Scorpio Make lifestyle changes and express your feelings about certain relationships and how you'd like to see them develop. A romantic offer will help you gain approval.

Sagittarius Preparation will be necessary if you want to avoid interference. Someone will use unscrupulous tactics to veer you off track. Make changes based on your needs.

Capricorn Put your plans in motion. In order to reach your goal, rely on experience, and people you know will come through for you. There are unexpected gains heading in your direction.

Aquarius Don't take risks. Focus on good health, your professional position and the changes necessary to improve your life. Don't believe everything you hear.

Pisces Getting together with old friends or colleagues will do you good and open up a dialogue that will lead to a partnership or chance to reclaim something you lost. EUGENIA LAST
